ALDREN is an EU-funded Horizon 2020 project aiming at establishing the business case for deep renovation in non-residential buildings with a focus on offices and hotels.

The 3-year programme which started in November 2017 intends to encourage investment and accelerate the movement towards a nearly zero energy non-residential building stock across the EU, by 2050 to meet Paris Agreement commitments. An improvement in both the quality and reliability of building deep renovations operations is expected to be reached from the implementation of the ALDREN methodology.

H2020 ALDREN

The ALDREN Consortium invites you to its final conference on Tuesday, September 29. This event is an important step to present the ALDREN methodology which consists of:

4 Standalone MODULES:

- Building energy performance rating based on ISO/CEN standards;
- Energy performance verification protocol;
- An IEQ (Indoor Environmental Quality) index, named ALDREN TAIL;
- Costs, financial risks and value for deep renovation analysis.

2 Reporting TOOLS:

- Building Renovation Passport (BRP)
- European Voluntary Certificate (EVC)

This project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 754159.
